

Banco de la República (the Central Bank of Colombia) increases the allotment of repos with private debt instruments.

Banco de la República (the Central Bank of Colombia) increases the allotment of repos with private debt instruments.

Banco de la República increased the allotment of liquidity auctions from $17 trillion to $20 trillion as of Tuesday, 17 March 2020. The $3 t increase is destined to expand the allotment for the auction of REPOS backed by private instruments, which will increase from the current $5 t to $8 t. Additionally, the Central Bank will have the flexibility to reassign the allotment of REPO auctions with public instruments (currently $12 t) to the REPO auctions with private instruments. These allotments are broad facing the liquidity needs of the economy.

Note: 1 billion = 1 x 10⁹; 1 trillion = 1 x 10¹².