Advanced Course in Economics for Professors (CAEP in Spanish) Tuesday, 29 March 2022 - 12:00 General Objective

The objective of this course is to provide the attendees with a high-level academic space, to study in depth advanced topics in macroeconomics, microeconomics, and econometrics. Moreover, it aims to promote the transmission of knowledge from those attending the course to students and other professors from the schools where they belong. As an additional benefit, participants can have academic spaces where Bank's technical team members share with the attendees studies that are useful for the Central Bank in its decision-making process. Furthermore, it seeks to build a relationship among colleagues from different universities in order to create contact networks that foster academic excellence and quality research, in addition to the exchange of pedagogical experiences with the participants and the Central Bank's technical team.
