
Banco de la República \(the Central Bank of Colombia\) launches the 13th National Short Essay Contest: From the School to the Central Bank

Students in grades 9, 10, 11, and 12 from all schools across the country are invited to participate in this edition of the contest by answering the question: Why is the independence of Banco de la República essential for the country's economic stability?

The “From the School to the Central Bank” contest is part of the Economic Education Program– Banrep Educa, which aims to promote a better understanding of Banco de la República’s importance in the Colombian economy and society, its objectives and functions, and how the Central Bank’s decisions relate to our daily lives and well-being.

In this edition of the contest, Banco de la República invites students in 9th, 10th, 11th, and 12th grades from all schools across the country to participate.

To do so, students must form teams of three to five members under the guidance of a teacher. They must consider both the current economic context of their region and the national context and write a short essay answering the following question: Why is the independence of Banco de la República essential for the country's economic stability?

All teams wishing to participate with their essays must register using the contest’s registration form before the established deadline.
