
Download \(only in Spanish\)

Keep in mind

The Regional Economic Bulletin is published by the Regional Economies Section of the Technical and Economic Information Department at Banco de la República. The views and potential errors are the sole responsibility of the authors and do not compromise Banco de la República or its Board of Directors.

AUTHORS AND/OR EDITORS

Sección de Economías Regionales Ramírez-Rodríguez, Carolina Orozco-Gallo, Antonio José Escorcia-Albor, Lina Marcela Forero-Vargas, Daniel Alfonso Reina-Aranza, Yuri Carolina Yabrudy-Vega, Javier

The Caribbean region's economy showed favorable performance in the second quarter of 2025, although some strategic sectors remained in contractionary territory. Factors such as the onset of the rainy season, lower interest rates, stronger private consumption, increased household confidence, and dynamism in entertainment activities boosted agricultural production, retail trade, and tourism. Likewise, increased formal employment and contained inflation contributed to the positive outcome. In contrast, coal production and passenger land transport declined due to high costs and blockages, and lower construction activity had a negative impact on the sector.

See the interactive bulletin \(only in Spanish\)

Publication Date:
Tuesday, 23 of September 2025

Higher household consumption of durable goods boosted retail sales within the context of improved business confidence. At the same time, the dynamism of sporting events, concerts, and festivals stimulated demand for tourism services, particularly from foreign visitors.

The reduction in electricity costs contributed to maintaining the downward trend in inflation, together with lower prices for basic foods, which also supported agricultural supply. On the contrary, higher meat prices discouraged cattle and pork slaughter, negatively affecting supply in that segment.

High costs and road blockages reduced coal mining operations. Meanwhile, increased use of substitute energy sources discouraged contractual sales of natural gas.

